To whom it may concern

Since 22 years, I have been working as a journalist for well known daily newspapers and weekly magazines in West Germany. Such as: "Mainzer Allgemeine Zeitung", "Kölner Stadtanzeiger", "Express", "Bild-Zeitung", "NEUE REVUE", "Quick", "Bunte". Presently I represent the "BURDA" Publishing Company, Bild + Funk, Wiesbaden as regional chief-editor. Before matriculating and studying Journalism, I was brought up in catholic tradition, which - although disciple of Bhagwan Shree Rajneesh - I still practice and with which - for the high moral virtues indicated therein, I deal with high respect. The teachings of Bhagwan Shree Rajneesh (especially about Jesus) - in addition, helped me to a more profound and deeper understanding.

In 1981, representing Heinrich-Bauer-Verlag, Hamburg, I was sent to Poona, India, in order to make researches on the Shree Rajneesh Ashram there. Skeptical and full of prejudices, did I arrive - due to having read a few articles, published earlier about the matter. My intention- I admit - therefore was: to warn my readers about the on-goings in Poona.

It took me exactly two days, to let go of these prejudices. The lectures of Bhagwan Shree Rajneesh and the readings of his books as well the meditations practiced in the Ashram - gave me a deeper insight not only about myself, but also about how to deal more lovingly with other people. As a result, I became a disciple of Bhagwan Shree Rajneesh and as such continued to work in my profession successfully. I am grateful to Bhagwan Shree Rajneesh for having shown me that to be tolerant towards others, to be more relaxed into my work ( as being an opportunity to be creative) and to be open to life as a God given gift - has made me more and more conscious that loving rather than hurting or being hurt is my birthgiven right to be discovered and - thanks to Bhagwan Shree Rajneesh - to be experienced.

I consider him not only an internationally known celebrity, but also one of the greatest spiritual teachers, who should - as long as he is still alive - made be able to go on with his significant work.
