To Whom it May Concern,

I met Bhagwan Shree Rajneesh through his book, "Tantra - The Supreme Understanding", and have read many other religious books, because I am interested in Zen. A friend of mine Dr Boku Chu Haku who also reads Bhagwan's books, had a desire to bring Bhagwan's philosophy into the medical field. As one step of this, last October we opened Aisei hospital at Yao City. I now work as a acupuncturist there.

As Bhagwan says, people have a fear of death and suffer from a lack of love which is the base of their existence. We think many people express it through their bodies as disorder. So, we always make effort to understand what the patient feel. So often we find the fear of death as well as physical disorders.

We feel that the active medical field is our place of worship for patients as well as ourselves. We are watching ourselves through this.
