

Dear Sir,

As an expert in the field of martial arts, with over 20 years experience, I wish to state that the direct influence of Bhagwan Rajneesh both in person and through his writings has been invaluable to me in my work and through that has benefitted many Americans having been in his Ashram in Poona in 1977 and having lived in Oregon for a few months the reality of meditation in Martial Arts and the ways to breach the reality profound were greatly aided by his influence and guidance.

In ten years of study in the Orient, having met and learned from many martial art masters, few were able to make clear how to develop the mind upon which all the true technique of martial arts are based and depend. Whereas, many teachers mention the methods whereby to master the techniques of meditation which allow a person to transcend brute force, few and rare indeed are those like Bhagwan who can transmit them with aliveness, clarity and integrity so that the Western mind is capable of absorbing them and using in their daily lives.

Being the 1st Westerner the Peking College of Physical Education (the highest licensing authority in Mainland China) certified to teach the complete system of TAI CHI CHUAN (the most widely practiced martial art in China), having a 9th degree black belt from the Tang Shuo Dao federation of Taiwan and being fluent in Chinese and Japanese, so I could communicate to the Oriental masters in their own language, I believe the presence of Bhagwan Rajneesh to be of true benefit to the millions of Westerners involved in martial arts and myself personally. I am very grateful such an invaluable inspiration and reference source is in ~~my~~ my home country, the USA. He can only add to American cultural enrichment.
