To Whom it may Concern.

Standing on the red road during our recent festival, with fifteen thousand other friends of Bhagwan, one could only be overwhelmed by the joy that this man could bring to so many people simply by driving by.

Joy is a great part of his teaching, his mere presence, in silence, raises it from our depths.

In India, Bhagwan Shree Rajneesh used other methods to stir us, lectures and other devices. Here in Oregon his silent satsangs and darshans bring us an experience of greater intensity. He is living with us now, transforming us into more creative people, capable of building our own city.

Bhagwan's silent work is now, in the present moment, inspiring his people to live in an atmosphere of peace, harmony and freedom.

He is needed here in a growing U.S.A. that deserves his blessings and the wealth of his sannyasins. In silence with Bhagwan we are growing daily. This is his work, his current message.
