To whom it may Concern

I graduated from Sydney University as a Medical Practitioner in 1972. Since then most of my working hours were devoted to treatment as well as research in the fields of Obesity and Gerontology.

I have had far more success dealing with these conditions on a psychological level, rather than in their clinical treatment.

My psychological skills were acquired through the study of a variety of literary works by Bhagwan Shree Rajneesh who I have for a long time considered a Psychological Genius as well as a Bona-fide Religious Teacher. It is a blessing for all Americans to be gifted with the presence of this man.
