

To Whom It May Concern

I work as the Economics Editor of The Standard Newspaper Group in Nairobi and have been working as a full time journalist for local and foreign media for almost 20 years.

Aged 45 years, I have travelled in as many countries round the world and have had the privilege of meeting some of the most brilliant minds in the course of my professional duties and travel.

No person has influenced me more positively than Bhagwan Shree Rajneesh and has helped me to cope with the problems, and the tensions of a hectic life. His teachings and methods to realise one's potential are of tremendous importance and practical value for this troubled age and the future.
