To whom it may concern

Not only do I find Bhagwan Shree Rajneesh an exceptional human being on a spiritual level, but I find him an incredible analyst of the human psyche.

I have a B.A. in Psychology and Education from Antioch College, and have worked for years as a therapist and counsellor with disturbed children and adults, as well as normal adults in the growth movement. I always felt a great limitation in the thinking of most modern day psychologists and thinkers as to the workings of the human heart and mind. When I began to read Bhagwan's religious books and practise some of his meditation and therapy techniques my understanding of myself and the people I struggled to reach over the years took a lateral jump.

I cannot stress enough what an asset Bhagwan Shree Rajneesh has been to the field of psychology and education for those who have the courage to explore and experience his vision, for it is a profound and transformative one.

There is no one else in the world today, according to my own quite indepth study, with such a capacity for grasping man in his totality. He goes to the very roots of man's struggle with existence and in a very playful and intuitive way untangles the mysteries which for some people are so overwhelming that it alters their ability to function at all.

I can clearly state that if I have enjoyed my success in the past five years, working with my own evolution and that of others, I owe it to Bhagwan Shree Rajneesh.

Yours truly
