To whom it may concern.

I'm a journalist and since 1979 I have been a practising psychologist, writing articles on social political issues in various newspapers, magazines and books at the same time.

First having studied chemistry, later I changed to german language and psychology in Hamburg and Giessen.

The meditations and books of Bhagwan Shree Rajneesh helped me to gain more clarity and increased my capacities to give the "touch-for-healing" treatment to people feeling pain, both physically and mentally.

I feel Bhagwan Shree Rajneesh opened up new dimensions of my understanding of the nature of the humane, widening the range of possibilities to approach the other. There is no doubt that Bhagwan proves every day that he is an outstanding spiritual leader whose influence is felt world-wide.

In my very first personal contact with him I learnt that one of the most important things in life is to see with the heart and not only with the eyes. This has affected my work in the past and will do so in the future. Hence I feel great commitment and gratitude towards him and his teachings.
