To whom it may concern:

As a convincing Christian I have been working for twenty years as a social worker in the City Mission. During the last ten years, I have had to deal with young people of various ages and social backgrounds. In doing this, I got an insight into the teaching of Bhagwan.

Although this teaching isn't right for me, I must admit to myself that it is fully valid for all those believing in it. I myself experienced young people who found the way to themselves through the Bhagwan and are today standing on firm ground. Young people who formerly took an aggressive stand towards life have now found their place and are radiating content and joy.

I am therefore convinced that this religion can only be a blessing to all those who follow it from inner conviction, since Bhagwan's teaching shows no compulsion but is founded upon freedom like Christianity.

With kind regards
