To Whom it May Concern:

Bhagwan Rajneesh is an important teacher who is fulfilling our American heritage.

I am co-founder of the National Center for the Exploration of Human Potential that was created with the leading behavioral scientists that launched the human potential movement and humanistic psychology.

We have been following Bhagwan's work for over ten years. He is a master teacher of the highest order. Being in his presence results in raising the consciousness of those around him and releasing their potential in a highly responsible way for the highest social good.

There is no other being on the planet who is providing the service to humanity that he is. His teaching is the essence of the American way; self awareness of each of us for our unique potential responsibly expressed for the benefit of humanity.

It is the destiny of our American heritage to have Bhagwan in America. With him here we will surely demonstrate what we are all about. All one needs to do is visit the ranch and hope for the American Dream is restored.

At this time in history, we need all the hope we can get.

Sincerely,

David J. Harris
