To whom it may concern,

I've been brought up all around the world. Studied mainly in Asia and Europe.

I learned a lot about the different religions and the ways of life.

For the past 2 years I've been a fashion Model in America and Australia.

My father is an architect and my mother is a school teacher mainly teaching in International Schools around the World.

In our travels we came across Bhagwan and his meditations. I have now been with him for 9 years and I would like to share with you my feelings of what Bhagwan is for me and how he affects me in my worship and personal life.

The past few years that Bhagwan has been in silence has been for me the most amazing experience of going in myself. I find that words keep us occupied, keeps us from really being with ourselves and experiencing that peace.

When Bhagwan comes out during the festivals, to be with us its even more magnified of going in.

He gives us a space that is hard to write in words but if you have experienced if you would know what I mean.

A joy of seeing him and being in his presence is enough for me.

How I feel he communicates to me comes from this space of being open.

I know what actions to take, I trust that impulse of energy to do something or say something is right. That also goes for the way he affects me in my worship.

The more I am in harmony and total in my worship I feel connected to him even more. Being total in something, being in that moment brings the present, brings bliss which is what he is.

We all worship here under the same influence of following that insight, following that energy which guides us. We all worship together as One, we are like a team and we support, care and love each other as a family. In our strengths and weaknesses we help each other in.

His guidance is there and our trust also.

That is what is felt in this Buddhafield a Oneness with each and everyone of us together, loving.

I hope you can understand this letter and what he is for all of us.

Thankyou for your attention
