Gentlemen,

For most of my life I have lived and worked in Southeast Asia & the Far East, including India, travelling widely as executive of a multinational Company. I have had the opportunity to observe at first hand a broad spectrum of people, their attitudes & their philosophies.

Many religions exist in the area, the majority not derived from Christian concepts but none the less with a strong following of those who find that they can draw strength from the philosophies expressed and apply them in rationalising their approach to day-to-day living. In some instances, the appeal is not limited to narrow indigenous groupings but find a broader international understanding & following.

My elder son has found much in the disciplines & teachings of the religious leader Bhagwan Shree Rajneesh which reflect & enhance his own attitude to life, as clearly have many, many others. It would seem that the furtherance of a productive & positive philosophy could only be beneficial, as in this instance.

Yours truly,
A. G. G. G.
