To whom it may concern

Since I live in the commune of Bhagwan Shree Rajneesh and I became his disciple, a big change inside of me happened.

Before the world and life often was heavy for me, and through Bhagwan inner joy is flowing out of me. It is a transposition of my life, and I am learning to cultivate life. The way we are able to create things is so powerful that it really was necessary to let my energy stream and come out of me.

When I visited Rajneeshpuram I could see what people are able to do when they are together and working. Even the impossible is possible, it seems, on a certain level. All through Bhagwan's love. He teaches us how to love ourselves, and to loving to existence and nature.

Here in our commune in Holland we worship and celebrate. Everybody is worshipping in a temple and together we give the world the opportunity to taste something of Bhagwan's religion.

Bhagwan is my life, because he brought me to my inner source back to life. We have to be grateful. There is no master like him on this world. Now we have an opportunity, we haven't had for a long time.

It would be stupid to put him aside because he can be the one who saves this world from destruction, without pushing anyone.

Everything he teaches is being free, and everything we sanyasins do, is out of our free feelings.

I hope I have been able to make something clear to you.
